

Marianne finds a job as an artist in France. Although she is constantly changing and can express change through her paintings. Instead of turning to drugs and drastically changing her appearance she can freely express her feelings.

End of book.

Ashlyn Yokoyama