

Last panel

Marji settles down with a man that she truly loves. Compared to before, she has matured and become a woman who is capable of making her own decisions. Marji wants freedom, but at the same time is tied down by marriage. After she is set free, she doesn't spend much time using that freedom.